Fu Jen Catholic University Department of Financial and Economic Law Curriculum Rules

Formulated and approved by the College-Department Affairs Joint Meeting on 2012.01.04.04. Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2012.04.26
Amended and approved by the College-Department Affairs Joint Meeting on 2013.10.16; reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2013.11.21
Amended and approved by the Joint College-Department Affairs Meeting on October 29, 2014; Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on November 27, 2014
Revised and approved by the Joint College-Department Affairs Meeting on 2015.03.25. Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2015.05.14
Amended and approved by the Joint College-Department Affairs Meeting on 2016.03.23. Reviewed and approved by the extraordinary academic affairs meeting on 2016.06.02
Revised and approved by the College-Department Affairs Joint Meeting on 2016.06.01; reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2016.11.24
Revised and approved by the Joint College-Department Affairs Meeting on December 28, 2016; reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on April 27, 2017
Amended and approved by the Joint College Affairs Meetings on 2018.01.10 and 2018.03.21; reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2018.05.03
Revised and approved by the Joint College Affairs Meeting on 2019.03.13 Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2019.05.02
Amended and approved by the Joint College Affairs Meeting on 2019/10/02; Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2019/11/28
1Amendment approved by the College-Department Affairs Joint Meeting on 2021.03.17 Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting on 2021.04.29
1 Amendment and approval by the College-Department Affairs Joint Meeting on 2023.04.27
112.06.07 Amendment and approval by the Joint Meeting of Colleges and Departments 112.11.23 Reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting
113.05. 29 Departmental Affairs Joint Meeting Coordination Amendments 113. 04.2 5 Amendments approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting
114.05. 14 Revised in coordination by the Joint College-Department Affairs Meeting on 114.05.01 Revised and approved by the Academic Affairs Meeting

Chapter One	General rule
Article 1	The Department of Financial and Financial Law at the College of Law, Fu Jen Catholic University (hereinafter referred to as "the Department") has established these regulations in accordance with Article 40 of the Fu Jen Catholic University Academic Regulations.
Chapter Two	Bachelor's class
Article 2	(Total graduation credits). The minimum total graduation credits for students in this class, excluding the required instructor schedule set by the university and including the required credits for the following items, are 128 credits in total 1. Holistic Education Course: 32 credits: including 10 credits of core courses, 12 credits of basic competency courses, and 10 credits of general education and cultivation courses 2. The department's professional required courses total 37 credits 3. 31 credits of required professional courses in this department 4. 2 credits of required case study courses in this department 5. Elective courses: 26 credits. Of these, at least 10 credits of professional elective courses within the department must be included 6. The graduation credits must include one 2-credit-sized all-English course If the above provision is amended after students enroll in this class, unless otherwise specified, the revised provisions shall not apply.
Article 3	(Subject Learning Ability Assessment) Undergraduate students admitted from the 2018 academic year onward must pass the Information Science Learning Ability Test. The implementation methods and standards follow the "Fu Jen Catholic University Student Basic Literacy Cultivation and Testing Implementation Measures."
Article 4	(Learning Passport Graduation Qualifications) Students in this class must meet the learning certification standards stipulated in the College's Student Learning Passport Implementation Regulations before graduation to be eligible to graduate.

Article 5	(Subjects and conditions for advanced study restrictions) The subjects and conditions for advanced study for students in this class are as follows: 1. You must have completed the 'General Principles of Civil Law' before you may study 'General Principles of Obligations (I)'; You must have already studied 'General Principles of Obligations of the Civil Code (I)' before you may continue to study 'General Principles of Obligations (II)'; You must have already studied the 'General Introduction to Obligations (1) and (2) of the Civil Code' before you can study the 'Specific Section on Obligations of the Civil Code.' 2. You must have already studied the "General Provisions of Criminal Law (I)" before you may continue to amend "General Provisions of the Criminal Code (II)"; You must have completed 'General Provisions of Criminal Law (I) and (2)' before you can study 'Specific Provisions (I)'; Only after studying 'Criminal Law Section (I)' can one continue to amend 'Criminal Law Section (II)' 3. Only after studying 'Constitution (I)' can one continue to amend 'Constitution (II)' 4. Only after completing 'Administrative Law (I)' can one continue to amend 'Administrative Law (II)' 5. You must have already studied 'Civil Law Property Rights (I)' before you may continue to study 'Civil Code Property Rights (II)' 6. Only those who have completed the 'Code of Civil Procedure (I)' may continue to amend 'Code of Civil Procedure (II)' 7. Only those who have completed the 'Code of Criminal Procedure (I)' may continue to amend 'Code of Criminal Procedure (II)'
Chapter Three	Master's program
Article 6	(Duration of Study). The duration of study for graduate students in this class is from two to four years. Graduate students in this class may take a leave of absence for up to four semesters; However, for those admitted in the 2010 academic year (inclusive) or earlier, the leave period shall be handled according to university regulations According to the 'Fu Jen Catholic University College of Law Undergraduate Program's Five-Year Integrated Regulations,' in addition to taking a leave of absence according to the university's regulations, the duration of study is one to four years.
Article 7	(Thesis to be taken). Except for the master's thesis which is 0 credits (6 credits for graduate students admitted before the 2007 academic year), graduate students in this class must complete at least 16 credits of the elective courses recognized by the class (20 credits for graduate students admitted before the 2015 academic year). The minimum total graduation credits are 26 credits (36 credits for graduate students admitted before the 2007 academic year, 30 credits for graduate students admitted from the 2008th academic year to 2015). The minimum total graduation credits mentioned above must include one professional law course taught entirely in a foreign language taught by a master's program (applicable to graduate students admitted from the 2009 academic year onward). Graduate students in this class must supplement 4 credits of a second foreign language course offered by undergraduate students (excluding the minimum graduation credits), with a GPA of 70 or above. However, those who meet one of the following qualifications may submit proof to apply for exemption from make-up courses: (Applicable to graduate students admitted from the 2009 academic year onward). 1. Completed 4 credits of Second Foreign Language courses during university. 2. Pass one of the following language exams and obtain a certificate: (1) Japanese: Must obtain a Level 4 or higher certificate of passing the Japanese Language Proficiency Test organized by the Japan Foundation. (2) Japanese: Must have obtained a certificate of passing Level 4 of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) or Level E of the Practical Japanese Language Proficiency Test (J.TEST). (3) French, with a TCF score of 150 or above on the French Language Proficiency Test. For students who have retaken the master's program at this college, credits from courses they have already passed may be credited to two-thirds of the minimum total graduation credits, and this exemption is limited to one time. However, after credits are remitted, the minimum total credits for courses offered by this class must be at least half, and the class's grade cannot be increased. During the period of studying for a bachelor's degree at this college, if the total score from master's courses offered by the college is 70 or above, and the credits are not included in the minimum graduation credits of the original department, the student may be exempted from two-thirds of the total minimum graduation credits for the master's program. This exemption is limited to one time and cannot be upgraded in rank. For those who have previously attended the master's program in the college as part of a class as a supplementary student, the credit exemption after enrollment shall be governed by the provisions of the preceding paragraph.

Article 8	(Thesis Research Scope). The graduate thesis topics in this class generally focus on fields related to financial and financial law.

Article 9	(Qualifications of the advisor). Master's thesis advisors must possess one of the following qualifications: 1. Current professors, associate professors, or assistant professors who have taught at the university for more than two years 2. Those who have served as academicians, researchers, associate researchers, or assistant researchers at Academia Sinica. The advisors mentioned in the preceding paragraph are limited to those who offer courses at the institute's graduate school.
Article 10	(Appointment of Advisor). Graduate students in this class must complete their thesis advisor appointment no later than registration in the first semester of their second year. After hiring a thesis advisor, if it is necessary to replace them for any reason, a reason must be provided first, followed by the consent of the original advisor, then the new advisor and department chair, and the advisor must be reappointed according to procedures.
Article 11	(Regulations for foreign language exams). Graduate students in this program must pass the foreign language exam or demonstrate compliance with the "Foreign Language Proficiency Recognition Standards" stipulated in Article 12, Paragraph 2 before applying for the thesis oral exam to be eligible for graduation. If you fail the foreign language exam or have not obtained the "Foreign Language Proficiency Recognition Standards" as stipulated in Article 12, Paragraph 2, you must complete the full foreign language courses offered by this class or take the same legal classics (1) and (2) for 4 credits. If both credits are at least 70 points, it will be considered that they have met the requirements for foreign language proficiency recognition. Graduate students in this class must fill out the Foreign Language Examination Application Form and submit it within three weeks of the first day of each semester The foreign language exam will be held on one day within the week before and after the midterm exam.

Article 12	(Foreign Language Exam Subjects and Methods). Foreign language exam subjects include English, German, Japanese, or French, with a written test and a passing score of 70; Those who fail may reapply for the exam in the following semester, with no limit on the number of retakes. The "Foreign Language Proficiency Recognition Standards" shall be any one of the following: 1. English: TOEFL new English system 88 points, GEPT intermediate-high level, TOEIC 750 points, IELTS 6 points. 2. Japanese: Obtained a certificate of passing Level 3 of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) and Level D or above of the Practical Japanese Language Proficiency Test (J.TEST). 3. German: Obtain a Goethe-Institut German exam certificate of A2 or above. 4. French: Proof of a TCF score of 250 or above on the French Language Proficiency Test. Graduate students who meet the above standards within three years prior to enrollment will be recognized.
Article 13	(Foreign Language Examination Board) After graduate students apply for the foreign language exam, the department chair should immediately appoint and convene several assistant professors or above who are experts in the foreign language subject applied for from inside or outside the university to form the Foreign Language Examination Committee, responsible for question setting and grading. Instructors may not serve as foreign language exam committee members for their students.
Article 14	(Degree Examination Application). Graduate students in this class must complete the required credits and pass the foreign language exam. A copy of transcripts from previous years must be attached, and with written consent from the advisor, they may apply for the master's degree examination. Graduate students must upload their thesis oral exam transcript to the university's library for originality comparison before applying for the degree exam. The comparison report must be at least 30% (inclusive) and signed and approved by the advisor before applying for the degree examination
Article 15	(Degree Examination Method). The master's degree examination is conducted through an oral examination.
Article 16	(Degree Examination Committee). After receiving an application for the degree examination, our class shall request the advisor to recommend two to five qualified scholars and experts. With the approval of the department chair, the department chair will recommend the president to appoint and form the Degree Examination Committee to serve as the reviewer, oral examiner, and grader of the master's thesis. Among the selected degree examination committee members, there must be one full-time faculty member from the college, at least one-third from outside the university, and advisors may serve as ex officio members but may not serve as conveners.

Article 17	(Qualifications of Degree Examination Committee Members). Master's degree examination committee members must possess one of the following qualifications: 1. Those who have served as professors, associate professors, or assistant professors 2. Those who have served as academicians, researchers, associate researchers, or assistant researchers at Academia Sinica. 3. Holders of a doctoral degree and academic achievements. 4. Subjects that are rare or special, with notable academic or professional achievements.
Article 18	(Service of Papers). When appointing a master's degree examination committee member, the graduate student in this class should immediately coordinate with each committee member to arrange the examination time and deliver their thesis to each committee member for prior review. The delivery time for the thesis mentioned in the preceding paragraph shall be at least fourteen days before the exam date.
Article 19	(Attendance and scoring). The master's degree examination requires at least three examiners present to proceed. If fewer than three committee members are present, the oral examination will be invalid. At the end of the master's degree examination, attending committee members must score on the spot, with a passing score of 70 points and a full score of 100. If a thesis is plagiarized or ghostwritten by others, and the attending committee members review and confirm it, the thesis will be scored zero, may not be eligible for re-examination, and will result in expulsion.
Article 20	(Degree examination date). Each master's degree exam is generally two hours long.
Article 21	(Retake the exam). Students who fail the master's degree examination may apply for a retake before the end of their study period, but only once. If the retake still fails, the student will be expelled immediately.
Article 22	(Amendments to the thesis). Those who conditionally pass the thesis oral examination must obtain the consent of the original examiner or an authorized member before they can proceed with the departure procedures.

Article 23	(Conferral of degrees). After passing the master's degree exam and submitting an official master's thesis, the university will award the Master of Laws degree.
Article 24	(Revocation of Academic Degree). If it is proven that the master's degree awarded by the university has been plagiarized or written by another person, the university shall revoke it and revoke the issued degree certificate.
Article 25	(Submission of thesis). Graduate students in this program who pass the master's degree examination must submit their thesis to the relevant unit as required, and repay all books and materials borrowed from the library and the department before proceeding with the departure procedures and receiving the degree certificate.
Chapter Four	Indigenous Master's In-Service Master's Program
Article 26	(Duration of Study)
	The duration of graduate studies in this program ranges from two to six years. Graduate students in this class may take a leave of absence for up to four semesters. According to the 'Fu Jen Catholic University College of Law Undergraduate Program's Five-Year Integrated Regulations,' in addition to taking a leave of absence according to the university's regulations, the duration of study is one to four years.
Article 27	(Required credits)
	For graduate students in this class, except for master's theses which are 0 credits, Group A (admitted with a Bachelor of Laws degree) requires a minimum total graduation credit of 26 credits (4 core required courses, 22 elective credits); 1 Graduate students admitted starting from the 2010 academic year have a minimum total graduation credit requirement of 26 credits (4 core required courses, 4 core required courses, 18 elective credits); Group B (admitted with non-law graduation qualifications) For graduate students admitted in the 2017 academic year, the minimum total graduation credits are 36 credits (4 credits for core compulsory, 20 credits for basic law courses, 12 credits for electives). For graduate students admitted in Group B starting from the 2018 academic year, the minimum total graduation credits are 37 credits (4 credits for core compulsory, 21 credits for basic law courses, 12 credits for electives). Group B graduate students admitted from the 2010 academic year have a minimum total graduation credit requirement of 37 credits (4 credits for core compulsory, 21 credits for basic law courses, 4 credits for core compulsory electives, 8 credits for electives). Students who have retaken the master's program at this college may have credits from the minimum graduation credits they have already passed during their studies, limited to one time, and may not be promoted to a higher rank. During the period of undergraduate studies at this college, if the master's program offered by the college has a score of 70 or above, and the credits are not included in the minimum graduation credits of the original department, the credits may be exempted from two-thirds of the total minimum graduation credits. This exemption is limited to one time and cannot be upgraded to a new level. For those who have previously attended the master's program in the college as part of a class as a supplementary student, the credit exemption after enrollment shall be governed by the provisions of the preceding paragraph. Applicants who have taken law courses at other schools or this university before enrollment and have scored 70 or above may apply for credit exemption for additional credits mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

Article 28	(Research Areas and Thesis Scope)
	The scope of thesis topics for graduate students in this class is generally based on the relevant fields of the college's law courses taken during enrollment.
Article 29	(Qualifications of Instructors)
	Master's thesis advisors must possess one of the following qualifications: 1. Current professors, associate professors, or assistant professors who have taught at the university for more than two years. 2. Those who have served as academicians, researchers, associate researchers, or assistant researchers at Academia Sinica. The advisors mentioned in the preceding paragraph are limited to those who offer courses at the institute's graduate school.
Article 30	(Appointment of Advisor)
	Graduate students in this class must complete their thesis advisor appointment no later than registration in the first semester of their second year. After hiring a thesis advisor, if it is necessary to replace them for any reason, a reason must first be obtained from the original advisor, then by the new advisor and department chair, and the advisor must be reappointed according to procedures.
Article 31	(Degree Examination Application)
	Graduate students in this class must complete the required credits, submit a transcript from previous years, and obtain written consent from the advisor to apply for the master's degree examination. Graduate students must upload their thesis oral exam transcript to the university's library for originality comparison before applying for the degree exam. The comparison report must be at least 30% (inclusive) and signed and approved by the advisor before applying for the degree examination
Article 32	(Degree Examination Method)

	The master's degree examination is conducted through an oral examination.
Article 33	(Degree Examination Board)
	After receiving an application for the degree examination, the class shall request the advisor to recommend two to five scholars and experts qualified as master's degree examination committee members. With the department chair's approval and the recommendation of the president, the committee will be formed, responsible for reviewing, speaking, and grading the master's thesis. Among the selected degree examination committee members, there must be one full-time faculty member from the college, at least one-third from outside the university, and advisors may serve as ex officio members but may not serve as conveners.
Article 34	(Qualifications of Degree Examination Committee Members)
	Master's degree examination committee members must possess one of the following qualifications: 1. Those who have served as professors, associate professors, or assistant professors. 2. Those who have served as academicians, researchers, associate researchers, or assistant researchers at Academia Sinica. 3. Holders of a doctoral degree and academic achievements. 4. Subjects that are rare or special, with notable academic or professional achievements.
Article 35	(Service of Papers)
	When appointing a master's degree examination committee member, the graduate student in this class should immediately coordinate with each committee member to arrange the examination time and deliver their thesis to each committee member for prior review. The delivery time for the thesis mentioned in the preceding paragraph shall be at least fourteen days before the exam date.
Article 36	(Attendance and Rating)
	The master's degree examination requires at least three examiners present to proceed. If fewer than three committee members are present, the oral examination will be invalid. At the end of the master's degree examination, attending committee members must score on the spot, with a passing score of 70 points and a full score of 100. If a thesis is plagiarized or ghostwritten by others, and the attending committee members review and confirm it, the thesis will be scored zero, may not be eligible for re-examination, and will result in expulsion.
Article 37	(Degree Examination Schedule)
	Each master's degree exam is generally two hours long.
Article 38	(Retest)

	Students who fail the master's degree examination may apply for a retake before the end of their study period, but only once; If the retake still fails, the student will be expelled.
Article 39	(Amendments to the Paper)
	After the master's degree examination, graduate students in this class should consider the opinions of the attending oral exam committee members, discuss with their advisor, and make appropriate adjustments. Those who conditionally pass the thesis oral examination must obtain the consent of the original examiner or an authorized member before they can proceed with the departure procedures.
Article 40	(Conferral of Degrees)
	After passing the master's degree exam and submitting a formal master's thesis, the university will award the Master of Laws degree.
Article 41	(Revocation of Degree)
	If it is proven that the master's degree awarded by the university has been plagiarized or written by another person, the university shall revoke it and revoke the issued degree certificate.
Article 42	(Submission of Papers)
	Those who pass the master's degree examination must submit their master's thesis to the relevant unit as required, and return all books borrowed from the library and the department library before proceeding with the departure procedures and receiving the degree certificate.
Chapter Five	Appendix
Article 43	Matters not covered in these regulations shall be handled in accordance with Fu Jen Catholic University's academic regulations and related regulations.
Article 44	These regulations shall take effect after approval by the college's joint departmental meeting and the academic affairs meeting. The same applies to any amendments